

Fig. 2. Two sequential false-color snapshots of a microwave pulse penetrating a missile radome containing a horn antenna [2]. The impinging plane wave propagates from right to left at the speed of light and is obliquely incident at 15° from boresight. Complicated electromagnetic wave interactions visible within the radome structure require Maxwell's equations solutions to permit effective design.